ABOUT THE PATHOLOGICAL CAUDATIL.

CHAPTER I.

Certain bold-headed Eagles of the Profession, various of our Friends, have raised against us the old cry of "Quack." Many of these Ignoramus who call us "Quacks" can scarcely write their own names, let alone a decent or grammatical letter; and as for "doctoring"—Heaven save the mark!—Innumerable tombstones attest their handiwork. The anatomies of "Quack" and "Humbug" amount to nothing, for they have ever been buried against the reformer, and in every age the benefactors of the human race have suffered the persecutions of the ignorant and self-wise. The Barons of mankind was called an impostor and crucified, and if he were on earth to-day there are many who would revile and crucify him again. "Quacks" are not generally understood to be classical scholars, and in medical and classic lore we should be pleased to compare notes with our hypothetical Rishamantil.

CHAPTER II.

It is true that we stand in hostility to the Old Practice. Collectively our hand is against the schools. Bullet-headed and rhinoceros-hided, we are prepared to give and take blow for blow. We cringe to no clique—ask no favors. We have little reverence for the "powers that be," or ancient authorities. We despise a coward and believe in the God given right of resistance to imposition. We are to-day throwing the Light of Truth into the Allopathic crypts and recesses, rousing the reptiles, insects and noisome things which have so long reigned in the medical ignorance of the people, and to whom the daylight is death; and now on all sides we hear confirmed sounds of hissing, splitting and croaking of illomen.

CHAPTER III.

The people are beginning to get their eyes open to the fact that the Medical Profession is a gross imposture, and that the doctors kill more than they cure; and they are not far from right when they accuse some bumbling practitioner of killing a beloved child or friend. Says Dr. Frank—"Thousands are slaughtered in the quiet sick room." Said Professor Patterson—"I shudder at the murders committed by ignorant and inexperienced physicians."

CHAPTER IV.

Of all humbugs that have ever cursed the world the humbug of Allopathy has proved one of the most disastrous to the human race. A heartless, bigoted, blood-brimmed monster, it has destroyed the lives of untold multitudes. How many would to-day be living to cheer beloved friends had not the poison-armed Allopathy darkened the door? It is filled with filth, gosses work and death. I followers wander in darkness, and cannot see in that view of disease or treatment. After denouncing Paracelsus as a "Quack" it stole his quicksilver. After calling Jenner an "Impostor" it adopted his discovery of vaccination. After dubbing Harvey's "Humbug" it was forced to swallow his theory of the circulation of the blood. Thus we might multiply its shameful acts ad infinitum.

CHAPTER V.

What is Homeopathy? It is simply diluted Allopathy. Under a different form the Homeopaths use all the drugs employed by the Allopath—arsenic, opium, iodine, antimony, &c. Both Homeopaths and Allopaths prescribe internally such noisome remedies as bark, senna, cathartics, scald-head, Epsom, Salt-Rheum, Prunio, Peoria, Pemphigus, Melasma, Acne, Effervescent, Lichen and the 88 different varieties Skin Affections. And the 88 different varieties Skin Affections.

In common with the majority of physicians we once considered Phthisis Pulmonalis an incurable disease; but our long continued chemical experiments have recently brought to light an alchemical synthesis which is destined to overthrow preconceived ideas concerning the curability of this prevalent and fatal parasitic malady. One thousand cases cured during the year 1869, many of them in the advanced stage of the complaint, convince us that we hold in our grasp an agent whose value none can estimate.

It is a Nutritive, Denucent Vitalizer and Resolvent of tubercle. $500 will be paid for a better recipe, or if there can be found there a particle of opium or any of its preparations, hemlock, aquila, mercury, hydro cyanide, arsenic, or any poison.

Price $2 per package (with book), or three packages for $4.
